About

For more than four and a half billion years, Mother Nature keeps in he web of life in balance. Now, her child is threatening this fragile ecosystem and the conflict between the two is reaching to the point of no return. The direct human interactions on the planet have sealed our fate and after more than 200 000 years we are on the verge of self-annihilation. We undoubtedly will face the consequences of our actions, our mother will see to it. We kept ignoring her warnings for far too long and now she must restore the balance once again.
